Cub-Dad Day celebrated at Camp Babcock-Hovey

OVING — Approximately 200 Cub Scouts and their fathers from the Iroquois and the Keseca Districts of the Finger Lakes Council, Boy Scouts of America participated in a "Cub-Dad Day" at Camp Babcock-Hovey near Ovid.

The large turn-out was divided into four groups — the Eagles, Hawks, Owls, and the Pheasants, by Calvin Backstrom of Penn Yan, the Cub-Dad Day Coordinator. Each group then attended four different program features — cooking, woodsmen, archery, and rifle range in a round-robin fashion.

Seneca Castle's Scout activities

SENECA CASTLE — During July, Boy Scout Troop 82 of Seneca Castle had a campout at the Fred Amberg farm. The scouts are constructing a campsite there and have one left to finish.

Following the weekend event, the troop went to Oaks Corners to watch the Sky Rovers Hobo meet. It consisted of a two-day competition of model airplanes which are radio controlled.

Seven scouts attended summer camp at Babcock Hovey for a week. As a result, six scouts made second class and one working on his star, received the rifle and shotgun merit badge.

4-H exhibit

WATERLOO — "It Ain't All Cows and Cookin'" in Seneca County so say the 4-H leaders of the Seneca County Leaders Association with their exhibit at the Seneca County Fair. The exhibit shows how the 4-H program (1) gives youth the opportunity to "do your own thing" (self determined projects), (2) bridges the gap between youth and adults, (3) brings town and country together.

4-H leaders who developed, prepared and presented the exhibit were Mrs. Carol McCulloch, Mrs. Winnie Bennett, Mrs. Kay Miller, Vincent Gordner, Albert DeWall, and Mrs. Dinny Gere.
